ChemDesign's efforts in business, employee development, industry leadership and community outreach put them at the top of the list to receive the 2014 Business of the Year from the Marinette Menominee Chamber. During periods of high growth, recession and change, ChemDesign has been a stalwart for citizens, always staying true to providing above average wages and consistently supporting local charities and suppliers.

Their solid growth is a result of making chemistry work for leading chemical companies in several specialty markets, including agriculture, surfactants, additives, and specialty polymers. Many large chemical companies are increasingly choosing their domestic chemical production expertise to drive potential cost savings and reduce internal assets, allowing them to shift their focus toward research and development and away from non-core processes.
